To each of you copied on this email, and included in this letter:

Again, by now most of you know I wrote a book, Levi's Stadium Unsafe in Any Seat. It explains and starts to provide solutions to the chaos and dangerously inadequate security and other issues currently affecting all parties mentioned in the recently filed Cross Complaint against the 49ers entities: Cross Complaint filed by the City of Santa Clara, *Case no. 19CV355432 Forty Niners Stadium Management, LLC, et al vs City of Santa Clara, et al.

You can reference and download the 174 page electronically filed court case under the Resource 'tab' on my Author's website: https://unsafeinanyseat.com/wp-content/uploads/2020/01/Santa-Clara-Stadium-Authoritys-Cross-Complaint-against-Forty-Niners-Stadium-Management-Company-LLC-Case-No-19CV355432.pdf

To Al Guido and Mohammad Walizadeh,

I copied each of you and sent an email on December 21, 2019 which included the following narrative:

Hey Al and Mohammad,

Just received this in an email from Google Alerts that I have set up for Levi's Stadium.

It was the interview I gave which was aired live yesterday morning during Bay Area 'drive time'. Check out the link below. I also included as an attachment, the 14-minute unedited version.

Apparently neither you, the 49ers management, nor the City of Santa Clara have responded yet to KCBS News Radio 740.

Are you going to allow these potentially deadly Anheuser Busch 16 oz cans to be sold during tonight's last regular season home game against the Los Angeles Rams? Do you think these potentially deadly Anheuser Busch 16 oz cans should be sold during any regular season, playoff or Super Bowl games until Anheuser Busch can and Metal Container Company figure out and engineer a solution to this deadly weaponization of their product?

Al, you have had knowledge for some time now, about these 16 oz metal cans which can quickly and easily be 'weaponized'. The NFL has had knowledge of this since my discussion with them in January of this year.

I also wrote the attached letter to Carlos Brito, Chief Executive Officer at Anheuser-Busch InBev, and copied their General Counsel, Craig Katerberg. The individual letters were sent via FedEx on Thursday December 26, 2019 which was received by each of them on Friday

December 27, 2019. (reference the attached December 26, 2019 FedEX receipt with tracking numbers)

At Levi's Stadium the dangerously inadequate security issue is growing and there is an additional imminent danger I have now brought to others attention. And the NFL has known about this additional danger for almost a year now, when I had a 'voice to voice' conversation January 7, 2019 with Billy Langenstein, Director Investigations & Security Services for the National Football League.

Once again no one, including the Forty Niners Stadium Management Company, the NFL, or Anheuser-Busch is willing to take action or help with this safety concern.

Remember to print out and save this Third email/letter because you will need to reference the others when I send you the next email/letter describing other information related to Levi's Stadium.

Until then...

SUBJECT: Anheuser-Busch 16 oz metal cans being weaponized at NFL Stadiums

Hey Carlos,

It appears there are two separate leadership groups ABInBev and Anheuser-Busch, so I am contacting and notifying you at your New York offices because I am also currently on the East Coast should we need to meet:

Anheuser-Busch 16 oz metal cans being weaponized at NFL Stadiums

The NFL has known of this dangerous issue for almost a year now. I discussed this during a 'voice to voice' conversation on January 8, 2019 with Billy Langenstein, Director, Investigations & Security Services with the NFL, but after that discussion, Billy and the rest of the NFL 'went dark' on any further communication with me on this and other safety and security concerns at Levi's Stadium.

The Santa Clara Police (California) who provide security for the San Francisco 49ers and the NFL, would not listen to my concerns, and have filed false Police Reports to cover up multiple issues.

Over the last 10 days, I have also reached out to several AB Investor & Media contacts about your 16 oz metal cans which can quickly and easily be 'weaponized'. ABInBev and Anheuser-Busch related employees from several of your entities have looked at my LinkedIn profile, after I have tried to connect or message them, but none of those ABInBev and Anheuser-Busch employees have offered any type of direction to move this safety concern forward. Craig Katerberg, your General Council is one of those individuals. See attached screen-capture from LinkedIn.

Ingvild Van Lysebetten, your Director Global Communications at Anheuser-Busch InBev, has looked at my LinkedIn profile twice and then connected. Unfortunately, however, with Ingvild's role as Director of Global Communications at Anheuser-Busch InBev, I would have hoped something as serious as your Anheuser-Busch 16 oz metal cans being weaponized at NFL Stadiums, would have been immediately communicated to you.

Carlos, I am reaching out to you directly to see just what measures if any, you and Anheuser-Busch will be taking to ensure the safety of an average fan attendance of 67,000 at each of the 31 NFL Stadiums, which Anheuser-Busch sells beer at, in these easily modified and weaponized 16 oz metal cans.

Carlos, unless you take immediate action, you and Anheuser-Busch InBev may very well end up like Boeing, who also 'sells' another long cylindrical aluminum vessel. Boeing, similar to Anheuser-Busch InBev, also knew in advance about the dangers of their 737 Max airplanes, yet Boeing chose to let 346 innocent lives be part of their Quality Control experiment:
https://www.businessinsider.com/boeing-pilot-737-max-mcas-problems-messages-2019-10

I look forward to your immediate response and will be communicating daily to you via email until your issue is resolved.

Please contact me immediately. I have multiple solutions to offer.
